Select Poetry.

REMEMBRANCE.

BY J. W. FUREY.

To-night I dream, sweet love, of you,
The sweetest dream that mortals tell—
A dream of when our love was new,
Of hours bewitched by beauty's spell.

In twilight's shade I sit me down
To think o'er all my life has been,
And, gazing out upon the town,
Sad thoughts of you come floating in.

Thoughts of the time when you and I
Were friends whom death alone could part;
Before we learned how quickly fly
The hopes most cherished by the heart.

Once more I feel your soft, soft cheek
Pressed close against my willing face,
While loving arms about my neck,
Are twined in fond and sweet embrace.

And then your lips, which angels oft
Have hoped to leave their heaven to kiss,
Steal up to mine, in pressure soft,
And fill my starving heart with bliss.

As in the days when all your charms
Were to my heart so fondly pressed,
Again I ope my eager arms,
And hold you to my loving breast.

O, dearest dream of happier days,
Sometimes return to bless the hours
When, struggling in our sep'rate ways,
The cloud of sad remembrance lowers.

For we are feeble, and, perchance,
The light of love from other days,
May in our desert's wide expanse
Implant the germ of heavenly praise.

But stern realities awake
From this impassioned spell,
And life's great burden up I take,
Bidding the holy Past farewell!

Original Story.

For the Republican.

The Lamp-Post.

BY HUGH JAMES BENFIN.

PAPER I. (CONCLUDED.)

"On the following Christmas day there was another party in the settlement, this time at the residence of Mr. Hunter, and in celebration of the wedding of his daughter and Simon Jones. The ceremony being performed and the congratulations, which were many and hearty, being over, the guests sat down to an excellent repast.

"So great an occasion could not be allowed to pass by unimproved, and the young people had that night what was long remembered as a 'good time.' The fiddler came with his stirring music and the young people were not slow to heed his call. The young men did not need sheep-skin pumps to place upon their extensive 'understandings' in order gracefully to thread the 'many windings of the dance.' The young ladies neatly, though coarsely attired, neither made immodest displays at the upper, nor dragged unnecessary trails at the lower end of their dresses. In unadorned and beautiful simplicity they displayed those charms which, heaven gave to make them lovely, and concealed those which modesty bade them hide.

In these days the latter too often are displayed while the former are either entirely hidden, or shine but dimly through the thick enamel which they spread on their faces.

"It was a lovely moonlight night, and the air, though somewhat frosty, was still unusually pleasant for that season of the year, and the young people would come out of the house after dancing, and talk together, in pairs.

"Pete and a younger sister of Jerusha Jane's came out together at one time, and, all out of breath, seated themselves at the foot of my parent tree.

"As soon as Pete could get sufficient breath he said:

"'Susie, I tell you, you are some at dancin.'

"Susie gave a little ripple of laughter and burst out with—

"'Well, Pete, I'll tell you what, you're wusser'n a bear at huggin'.'

"'I hain't got the heart to contradict you, Susie,' said Pete, and at once proved the truth of her assertion.

"Then there was silence for a time. It was broken by Pete asking:

"'Well Susie what do you think of the ventur' Jerusha Jane has made to-night?'

"Susie drew a long sigh and answered:—

"'I 'spect it's what we've all got to come to.'

"'Well, what's the use in puttin' off the event,' said Pete.

"'I dunno,' said Susie.

"It was now Pete's time to sigh, and, with a long, deep drawn sigh, he said:

"'Susie, I love you, let's git married.'

"Susie dropped her head on Pete's breast and sweetly murmured, 'When?'

"Pete kissed the upturned lips and said:

"'To-night.'

"And they did.

"That spring there came a blighting epidemic—that fell destroyer of the little ones, scarlet fever,—upon the settlement. The angel of death hovered day by day over the place. Day by day he laid his icy hand upon the hearts of the dear little children, and they ceased their sorrowful moanings, gently closed their eyes, smiled the glorious smile of dying innocence and quietly passed away,—back to heaven.

"One cold and dismal day in March, John, James and Martha Jones were laid in a single grave. Loving friends were by to shed the unavailing tear, but they could not linger there, duty to the living forbade, for the dear little Sallie lay at home, her spirit lingering on the boundary between heaven and earth.

"When they returned they found little Johnny Burton sitting by the side of his suffering, but unconscious young friend.

"The parents, as they saw this sight, wept afresh and prayed that God might take their little daughter from them, rather than see her grow up with mind destroyed and senses impaired, as the physician thought would likely be the case, should she recover. The fairest and tenderest flowers are earliest smitten by the frost. Thus was this fairest of human flowers smitten by a cruel disease. But God rules. Let not men question the wisdom nor the goodness of the decrees of the omniscient.

"When Johnny Burton's parents came to carry him home, he complained of weariness and his face had the appearance of being sunburnt, sure precursors of the baneful disease. He begged to be permitted to kiss the lips of the little girl, as she lay, in a state of torpor upon her bed. His request was readily granted, and he went away to pay no more visits to the bedside of the dear little girl who had won his childish heart.

"Poor Johnny! The next day he became unconscious, suffering with intenest heat and burning thirst, until a sleepy torpor kindly relieved him from his agony. And when, after a month had passed, the disease abated, and consciousness again returned, a deeper blindness had settled down on those poor eyes, than when he had joined so joyfully in the game of Blind Man's Buff."

(END OF PAPER ONE.)

A Trip Around the World.

The Erie Railroad Company has issued a circular containing a statement of routes, times, and distances embraced in making a modern circuit of the globe. The circular says, and we agree with it, that "in all probability the time is not far distant, when we shall see advertised in our journals and on our thoroughfares the novel announcement, "Through Tickets for Passage Around the World, sold here; baggage checked to Hong Kong, Calcutta, or Bombay; only two changes to Shanghai.'"

The statement of routes, times and distances referred to, takes the shape of a ticket a yard long, across the face of which is the painful joke, "Good for one lesson in Modern Geography, but not valuable for passage." The lesson in geography is, however, instructive, and we are sure of the learning, if not of the ride.

We start at New York to do the circle, and we do it, in our imagination, in this fashion:

To Buffalo or Cleveland, 423 or 625 miles, by the Erie, in seventeen or twenty-four hours.

Thence to Chicago, 288 or 355 miles, in twenty-one or fourteen hours.

Thence to Omaha 400 miles in twenty-three hours.

Thence to San Francisco, 1,590 miles, in ninety three hours.

Thence to Yokohama, 4,714 miles, in twenty one days.

Thence to Hong Kong, 1,670 miles, in six days.

Thence to Calcutta, 3,500 miles, in 14 days.

Thence to Bombay, 1,219 miles, in two days.

Thence to Cario, 1,600 miles, in twelve days.

Thence to Alexandria 100 miles in five hours

Thence to Marseilles, 1,800 miles, in six days.

Thence to Havre via Paris and Rouen, 575 miles in thirty hours.

Thence to New York—home again—3,150 miles in nine days

Thus swinging round the circle, 23,539 miles, in seventy-seven days and 21 hours steady travel!

A sharp-tongued Texas woman, aggravated her lord to such a degree that he deserted his home in Houston and fled to Galveston, where he wrote the following letter:

GALVESTON, January the 7th, 1870.

My Lovin Wife:—Ime comin ome nex week an have forgiv you for jawin me. I'lle come on the 7 o'clock trane an shall stay ome hereafter & tri to be a altered man. I want peace and so do yew, why shoodn't we love each uther, as we used ter when we first jined together in the wholly bands of madlock. I've jined a temperance sosiety, but if you ever jaw me agin for comin ome I'll wollop you like forty fur we must have peese as grant says.

A Yankee peddlar in his cart, overtaking another, was addressed:

"Hallo! what do you carry?"

"Drugs and medicines," was the reply.

"Go ahead," was the rejoinder, "I carry gravestones."

BUFFLO girls are very saucy. "May I see you home?" inquired a lad of a lass at church.

"You may see me anywhere you like, but you can't walk with me," was the pert response.

IN an exchange the marriage of Mr. Cooper to Miss Staves is announced. The result will probably be barrels. Not so; the result will be a lot of little shavers, and if any of them be daughters, it will eventuate in hoops.

Educational.

Public Schools of Potter Township.

Whole number of schools 17; those at Centre Hall and Potters' Mills being graded.

Prospect Hill—George L. Goodhart, teacher, 31 Pupils.

Fair View—John F. Miller, teacher, 37 Pupils.

Centre Hall Grammar school—Levi Murary teacher, 56 Pupils.

Centre Hall Primary school—Miss Annie M. Shanon, teacher, 61 Pupils.

Plum Grove—O. L. B. Thompson, teacher, 48 Pupils.

Pine Stump—Fergus Potter, teacher. 49 Pupils.

Whisky Hollow—Miss Mary A Potter, teacher, 27 Pupils.

Tussey Sink—J. A. Runkle, teacher, 22 Pupils.

Earleytown—Miss Lucretia E. Cadwallader, teacher, 24 Pupils.

Centre Hill—T. B. McElroy, teacher, 45 Pupils.

Churchville—D. W. Loitzell, teacher, 40 Pupils.

Pine Grove—S. M. Swartz, teacher, 38 Pupils.

Loop—J. W. Shook, teacher, 68 Pupils.

Rock Grove—Miss Josephine Thompson, teacher, 39 Pupils.

Cold Spring (Mountain)—M. Shires, eacher, 31 Pupils.

Potter's Mills Grammar—Joseph Peters, teacher, 45 Pupils.

Potter's Mills Primary—Miss Maggie Thompson, teacher, 39 Pupils.

The above view shows that 700 children, in the Township, are attending the schools; which, if equally divided, would make an average of 41 pupils to each school. They are, however, not equally divided, nor can they be, under the circumstances.

Both the schools at Centre Hall are too much crowded, and an additional school seems absolutely necessary. Until this is done the grading must remain imperfect.

The schools are, in a general sense, successful: though many improvements could doubtless be made in a number of them. The Bible is read daily in all, and one or two are opened with prayer.

Class Registers are used in the two schools at Potter's Mills, the Centre Hall Primary, Pine Grove, Cold Spring, and Centre Hill.

We think if teachers would once give these useful aids a thorough trial, no further urging would be necessary to insure their future use in every school. Let the Pupils know that an exact record will be kept of every recitation and they will soon begin to pride themselves in making that record good, and be ashamed to have it otherwise. It is also suggested that the record of the entire class be read at the close of each recitation. In some of the schools too little is required of the pupil, and too much aid given by the teacher. Teachers should remember that they do more injury than good, in attempting to say for the pupils what they should have thoroughly learned for themselves.

Sufficient work should be allotted to pupils for the evening's employment, at home, and if not performed let the record of the class be made to tell on them, their parents consulted, and the matter insisted on. Parents should see that their children are at their tasks, evenings, and if none have been assigned, make mention of the fact to the teacher; for they may be assured that something is wrong, if their children seem to care nothing about the preparation of their lessons. In one or two schools only did we find that the pupils were not in the habit of preparing their lessons at home. In a few, however, we found that the smaller scholars were setting an example for the larger ones, in this respect. This is just the reverse of what it should be.

Many of the schools are not as well classified as they should and could be. Teachers should possess sufficient firmness to classify their schools with regard to the wants of the pupils only. Parents often interfere, unwisely, in this matter. We are certain that there are scores of boys in the above schools who should be learning Geography and History—who are capable of pursuing these studies, but whose parents had dissuaded them from it. The teacher should know best what the pupils are fitted to study, and to their good, solely, should his efforts be directed.

The "when" to commence these studies, together with the study of Grammar, will depend much upon the "how" of commencing.

One of the most common errors in all our schools is that of advancing pupils too rapidly into the highest Readers—to find from sixteen to twenty in the 4th and 5th Readers to five or six in Grammar is quite common.

In one school 54 were found reading in these advanced books, while only 16 were studying Grammar, and 19 Geography. In another, 19 were reading in these books while only 3 had commenced the study of Primary Geography. Parents seem to forget that their children will need a knowledge of branches which were not commonly taught when they were children; and that they are paying (in their school tax) for instruction in all of these useful branches. Much of the good of the schools is thus lost. We are opposed to "cramming" the minds of children with too many studies, but think the tendency is in the opposite direction.

Mental Arithmetic is taught in all except one, and in that one will be taught hereafter. Orthography, Reading, Writing, Written Arithmetic, Geography and Grammar in all. Phonetic Spelling is practiced in nearly all. Map drawing, in connection with Geography, is taught in the Grammar school at Potter's Mills—was recommended in all the others. Composition is taught in all the schools except four. Physiology is taught orally in two schools only. It is not desirable to attempt an extended course of instruction in this branch in our common schools, but some information should be imparted, by oral lessons, in all our schools. It is estimated that more than one half of the sickness and premature death which occur, might be avoided by following proper hygienic precepts, and since no education is complete unless it embrace the physical and moral with the mental, it becomes our duty as teachers to see to this. How many are there who, through ignorance of hygienic laws, pervert and abuse the temple in which they live. The result of this ignorance is brought to our knowledge now in frightful bills of youthful mortality.

The school houses are all pretty well arranged for ventilation except two. Teachers should see that the ventilators are properly used. All report that this has been done. Cleanliness is manifest in nearly all. Much taste is manifested in a number of schools by the decoration of the room with wreaths, mottoes, etc. This is as it should be.

The school-room should be made attractive, so as to lure the little ones to the spot. But while some are thus tastefully arranged, others present nothing but bare and smoked walls, deformed benches, etc.

These things have much to do with the formation of the child's character.

Singing is practiced daily in all except seven, but will be, hereafter, in all. It might profitably be taught in the two advanced graded schools. In the Primary school at Centre Hall we noticed a feature which we deem worthy of special notice, and commendation; the teacher leads the singing with an accompaniment on a school organ, which she has furnished at her own expense. A taste for music should be cultivated in our schools. In many of the schools the instruction is thorough, while in some it can be much improved. The pupil's success will depend not so much upon the space gone over, as upon the thoroughness of what he has learned.

The attendance ranges from 60 to 94 per cent. (This latter being the attendance of the Primary school at Centre Hall.)

The new house built in the Loop, during the year, is a good frame structure; the seating, however, is not so good as it might be.

Besides this, five have been furnished with necessary out buildings during the year. There are still seven without these, and it is hoped directors will continue the good work till all are thus furnished.

Two schools only are without out line maps, and these, we understand, are to be furnished during the present year.

A new house is under contract at Centre Hill, to take the place of the old one. The old stone house at "Pine Stump," is also unfit for use.

The uniformity of books, established a few years ago, is maintained, and we trust the people are beginning to see that it is as easy and cheap to use one kind of books as it is to use a dozen different kinds.

Nine of the teachers have had over five years experience, and five never taught before. One holds a professional certificate. Four have attended a County Normal School, and twelve of them attended the recent County Institute. Average age of teachers 26 years. Salaries of teachers from $30 to 35.

We would suggest a more thorough grading of teacher's salaries.

No downright acts of disobedience exist, but in several, an unwilling, hesitating compliance with the requirements of the teacher were noticed. Nothing short of prompt obedience should be tolerated. If pupils can be inspired with feeling of self respect, no trouble need be apprehended in regard to a violation of any just rules of school.

The Superintendent was accompanied, in visiting the schools, by Directors Arney, Stiver, Runkle, Bitner and Emerick, besides fifteen patrons of the different schools. R. M. M.

THERE is a difference between supplying a pulpit and "filling" it. Oliver Wendell Holmes announced on a certain occasion to fill an appointment made for Rufus Choate, told his audience he could never hope to fill Mr. Choate's place, but he would, for a little while, endeavor to rattle around it.

The 'National' and 'Watchman' Conspiracy.

CHEEK.—A contemporary is howling itself hoarse over the acquisition of a Gordon press. Perhaps it being the only thing in the office worth mentioning, unless it be the old Democratic type borrowed for the avowed purpose of creating a scism in the Republican party—the nauseating puffery of said contemporary is justifiable.—National.

"If you do want to be rough; you "ought at least to try to be fair, Mr. "National. The 'old Democratic type "borrowed, &c., as you say, was neither old Democratic type, nor was it "borrowed—it was good, clean, sound, "bright, Democratic type, that was "bought not borrowed. Of course we "sold it a little cheap and on easy terms. "when Brown told us that if he could "get on his feet again, he'd give some "of the leaders of his party who had "helped tramp him down, "particular "h—l"—a little matter that he has "taken particular pains not to do. The "scism that you say he intended to cre"ate was a great big split before he "commenced, and it was only to rep"resent one of the sides, and to give "somebody "particular h—l," that "the Republican was started. It has "tried to do its duty, tried to fill its "mission—has done all its original "backers could ask. If its editor wants "tobnast yqar Gordon press, let him "bonst—he's a rooster that can crow "on a loss dung hill than any other "bantam in this part of the country.—Watchman.

The above item from the wind-mill run by water-power, we had not intended to notice, and would not now, but for the fact that the Wathman has copied it and commented upon the same. The Watchman, although very unreliable authority, charges the National with down right lying.

Let us examine the National item a little. It says we are boasting over our Gordon press, and appears to be very much vexed because there is no Gordon in that office. It then states that our Gordon is "the only thing in the office worth mentioning, unless it be the old Democratic type," &c. Now it matters but little to us, or the Republican party, where we got the type, or how we got the type. Nor do they care how much the type may have lied when in other hands. Our subscription list now numbering 1800 good and substantial names, proves beyond a doubt, that the sound, radical, union, and liberty-loving Republicans of Centre county, like the story the types are telling now. They, the type, advocate the doctrines of the Declaration of Independence, and urge the great truth upon the farmers, mechanics and workingmen of the country, that all men are equal—that good morals and good manners make the man; that the poor man who conducts himself in an orderly manner, obeying the laws of his God and his country, is just as good, just as worthy, and should be entitled to as much respect as the man who owns his thousands, or it may be millions of dollars. These type advocate the doctrine that

"Worth makes the man—the want of it the fellow."

Without worth, no matter how rich or well born a man may be, he is nothing but "leather or prunello."

Borrowed type, forsooth! Upon what type have the windy carpet-baggers and hired Bohemians of the National been lying upon their neighbors—men native and to the manner born, who have given the best energies of their lives to the advocacy and advancement of the interests and principles of the glorious Republican party? Do the type belong to J. G. Kurtz, a company of gentlemen, or to C. B. Gould? Are they borrowed or otherwise? Are they Democratic or Republican, or neutral? We confess we have never been able, from reading your paper, to tell where to find you? Nor can we tell now, after you have six months of trial, whether you are fish, flesh or fowl.

One thing we do know, and we are prepared to prove it by abundant and reliable testimony, that before you had the National three weeks, you and the traitor Meek, the pincher and rooster Meek, met in Solemn conclave, and resolved to be friends to each other, to treat each other in a friendly and genteel way, while together you were to pitch into the REPUBLICAN—the "organ on Bishop Street," and crush it out without mercy, or without a hearing.

But you have failed, as cut-throats and traitors always fail. You played with Meek and lost. You put your trust in, and built your hopes upon, the long purses of your supposed backers, while you ignored the people, the bone and sinew of the country; the pride and hope of the Republican party.

Borrowed type, forsooth! Who owns the type in the National office? we repeat. Who pays the foreman and journeymen, the paper bills, &c., &c.? Why has the National again changed hands if it is not for the purpose of cheating its workmen and creditors? Or is it honestly to raise more money for the purpose of crushing out the REPUBLICAN with its 'borrowed type' and its beautiful Gordon press? Is it to break us down; to take the bread and butter out of our mouth and the mouths of our little ones, that a few monied men—capitalists—may control the party to suit themselves, to rule or ruin as they may feel disposed? We have no fears on this account, and we know that the honest and true Republicans of Centre county have made up their minds to stand by the REPUBLICAN, come weal or woe. They feel and know that it is their "organ" fearless and free.

Now let us say one word in reply to the "pincher and "rooster," Meek—the man who served two years in the Legislature—poor when he went, and who has, since his return, built a brick house and attached water power to his treason-defender and smut machine. Meek says the National misrepresents, does not state the truth, and then proceeds, to lie, himself, like a low scoundrel as he is. He says "Brown told us that if he could get on his feet again he'd give some of the leaders of his party who had helped tramp him down, particular h—l, a little matter he has taken particular pains not to do." Now what is the difference what we said to Meek, or how much we threaten certain men, real or supposed enemies, so long as we have "taken particular pains not to do so"? Suppose we had made use of the language attributed to us, to Peter Gray Meek! Would it not be in confidence? Certainly. Then would not Peter prove himself a great scoundrel to betray our confidence? Peter, we know is capable of doing a great many mean things. We believe he has treachery and meanness sufficient in his composition to play the spy, the traitor, the sycophant, aye, more, to play the role of Judas Iscariot, and for thirty pieces of silver, betray the world's Redeemer. If this be true, what are his statements worth? And supposing that we did make use of the language stated by Meek, does his betrayal of it not prove him to be all we have said he is? He can take either horn of the dilema. In either case he is unworthy of belief.

No, not a word of truth in the whole story. The trouble is, Meek is angry because he was defeated for the last Legislature. He did not get to Harrisburg "dree times." And he says the "d—d little organ on Bishop St. defeated him." Hence his uniting with the National to crush it out; but it won't crush. The people have so determined.

Another Change.

The National wind-mill run by water power, has again changed hands. The editor says he has "sold the material and fixtures to a party of gentlemen with a view of organizing a joint stock company," &c. And this he says is done to place the National on a solid financial basis, so as to give security to subscribers and advertizers," &c., thus admitting that it has not heretofore been on a "solid financial basis," and that the "subscribers and advertisers" have not heretofore had sufficient "security." The fact is, so far as we can learn, Mr. Gould has simply given back the "material and fixtures to a party of gentlemen" from whom he purchased it.

Now, if we are not deceived, we have in that "party of gentlemen," several friends. We respect and esteem them as friends, and hope we always may. But we want fair play and intend to have it. Before Mr. Gould took possession of the National, A. B. Hutchison & Co., made a written proposition to purchase it, and unite the two papers. The offer was rejected and the press was sold, for less money, to Mr. Gould, than Mr. Hutchison offered. We have never learned the reason.—Since that time they have been endeavoring to create a sentiment in favor of but one paper. We have not been consulted on the movement. Do this "party of gentlemen" intend to compel a consolidation of the two papers? Or will they give A. B. Hutchison & Co., a chance to buy that office at a fair price and upon reasonable terms? If not, let us hear no more of the consolidation of the two papers. So long as the Republicans of Centre county want an independent paper, run in the interest of the farmers, mechanics and laboring men of the county, and not in the interest of any one man, clique, or set of men, just so long will they support the REPUBLICAN.—When they fail to support it, we will not run it. That's clear.

We most cordially thank the Republicans of Centre county for the manner in which they have sustained us in the past, and sincerely hope they will continue to do the same in the future.

The Coal Question.

We stated last week that we had an article prepared on the "Coal question" and promised that it should appear in this number. Now we have concluded not to publish it, for these reasons. First. It is not our fight, never having indorsed either of "Co-operators" articles. 2d, We do not wish to continue a discussion that is all on one side, Col. Shortlidge, having failed to answer a single argument adduced by "Co-operator" and 3d, we wish to state, that while our friendship remains undiminished for Col. Shortlidge and while we wish him abundant success in his business, we must say that he has failed to satisfy the community as to the incorrectness of "Co-operator." And, 4th, we wish to say that Col. Shortlidge, can have room in our columns to defend his business or his interests, without going into the Watchman. In the fifth, and last place we wish to say to Col. Shortlidge, one word, to wit: It is none of your business who we keep in our office, or who writes for our paper, and the man to whom you allude, as being a fit companion for the Senior Editor of the REPUBLICAN, is a man, although he may have been unfortunate, possessing more brains, and we think more character than you possess. We are right sure that he possesses a better and a truer heart, and possesses another qualification, aye virtue that you would do well to add to your numerous virtues—the secret of attending to your own business and letting your neighbors alone. Silence in Court!

"Let us have no more applause" (See advertisement of Shortlidge & Co., in another column of the REPUBLICAN.

For the Republican.

"Momus" alias Sidney Muffly.

MESSRS. EDS:—As Momus has indicated his final leave taking of the writer of this article, I shall have but a few comments to make.

My object is accomplished. It was to publicly expose him as guilty of falsehood and calumny. His repetitions of the same only make the facts more apparent, for every intelligent hearer at the Institute is a witness against him.

The fellow has a strong combative nature; but he was cunning withal. He did not venture to make any criticisms on the floor of the Institute. He sheltered himself behind an anonymous name. This shows moral cowardice. He nursed his low hatred until he might stab, as he thought, securely.

Now when he is dragged out to light, he shows great want of resources. He seldom alludes to the subjects on which he attempted criticisms, but indulges only in personal attacks.

Muffly, your case is a hopeless one. You have libelled County Institutes, Teachers, Superintendent and all, and pronounced the Institute "a failure." And unless you have been paid by somebody interested, you have worked hard for no wages.

You may find after awhile, that falsehood and slander are poor helps to advancement and honor, and in this position I leave you.

Your motives are apparent through all your articles, and you have unluckily for yourself, made them too clear for any one to mistake.

So far as your insinuations about myself are concerned, I will remind you to remember your own history.—Every citizen of Howard knows it. I have forborne to detail it, because I concluded not to adopt your plan.

I, however, hold you, in part, to be merely the tool of more designing persons near you. I hope you may gain sense by experience. D.

Archbishop Spalding thus heads the American Episcopal force intermediary between the extremists of Italy and Germany on the infallibility question and other vexed subjects. The American prelates may thus carry off the greater number of the vacant scarlet hats.

—Were made—three hundred and thirty divorce applications last year in Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas, of which seventy nine were decreed, and the remainder are pending. In twenty-three cases the application was made by the wife and in one hundred and seven by the husband.

MORE BOUNTY.—Soldiers who enlisted for one year, and were discharged by "competent authority" before the expiration of their term of service, are entitled to one hundred dollars bounty, under a recent Act of Congress and a decision of the Attorney General.

CONGRESS.

Mr. Conkling's speech in the Senate on the withdrawal of New York from the ratification of the 15th Amendment, is not only greatly praised for its eloquence and power, but is generally taken as settling the law on that subject. "now, henceforth and forever." His points can be stated in a few words. 1. The act of ratification was not a legislative act. It was an act in pursuance of a power conferred by the Constitution for a special purpose, and might be exercised either by the Legislature or by a State Convention, as directed by Congress. All that the Constitution gave, was a power to ratify; no power to withdraw had been provided for, and there was no such power. Any attempt to exercise such a power was gratuitous and outside of the Constitution. To use Mr. Conkling's words: "It is a special function, delegated in a few and restricted words, conferred by an enabling clause of the Constitution, and can draw to its aid nothing from other sources." The fallacy of any argument for the right of withdrawal by a legislative act, was shown by substituting the alternative of a convention. If the ratification was by a convention, there could be no withdrawal. Then, the power, like the multitude of other powers, was spent by being once exercised; so with the power to grant a pardon; the power to elect a President by the House.—There is a power to do, but no power to undo.

2. Mr Conkling then considered another point, as to whether a State lost the right to ratify by neglecting to use it, or by refusing to use it, as in the case of Ohio. To make this clear, he cited cases of analogy. Did the refusal to make a treaty at one time, prevent the making of it afterwards? Of course not; but when the treaty was made it was an act done, and could not be retracted. The refusal to marry once, twice, or half a dozen times, does not preclude a subsequent marriage, but the act of marriage having been consummated, there is no mode of withdrawal. So, in making choice of a President by the House. It may be put off, it may be resolved not to make it, but it may be made nevertheless, and when made there is no method of retraction. "The whole truth lies in the statement that the Constitution gives the power to ratify, but does not give the power to cancel a ratification."

Mr. Conkling's chastisement of his State was grand, glorious, splendid.—He said he could not forget that this unworthy fling at a poor and suffering race was from the great and patriotic State whose honor and interests were so dear to him. The proceeding, he said, was appropriate if it was not fit. It was a continuance of that masquerade of proscription, violence and wrong in which one of its political parties had moved for years. He then went on to to give the particulars of the masquerade thus:

"When emancipation was proclaimed, the charioteers of the party plied whip and spur to trample down all who would allow black men to fight or to work under the flag of the nation.—They taught their followers that the colored people of the South would sweep, like a black wave, over the North; that the liberated slaves would rush here to compete with white labor and cheapen wages. Reason answered no, but truth and common sense were hooted, and unkenneled cowardice and ignorance bark in hideous chorus. Wantonness and infatuation ruled the hour. Dragged with error and maddened with meetings of mobs from a dance of faction to a dance of death. In this city of New York, duped and imbruted, thousands rioted in blood. The blade, the bullet and the cup did each its work; and the torch sent up from the christian soil of that imperial city the smoke of a burning orphans' asylum to tell in Heaven of the inhuman bigotry and barbarity of man.

"Emancipation prevailed. The uplifted banner of oppression and revolt went down. The nation's flag waved safe conduct to black and white alike. But no dark browed procession pants for the snows and frosty breezes of the North. The negro remains by the graves of his father, and climate, zone and history pile condemnation on the deeds done in New York at the bloody assizes of the Democratic party. The mask of protecting white labor against black, has served its purposes here and gone to the Pacific to be worn against the Chinaman's right to be and the right to toil. In the midst of New York's four millions of people, abide a dwindling few against whom the way to the ballot box has long been barred. At last the bar has fallen, and the fastidious Democracy recoil from admitting them to this right. The objection, we are told, is that ignorance will get introduced to the ballot and the suffrage will be cheapened and degraded. Democracy the champion of an immaculate ballot! Sextus as a vestal virgin! Shylock as a philanthropist! Satan as a reformer! Wolves as shepherds!"

After briefly eulogising the 15th Amendment he concluded by saying: "This is a truth for which the constitution is a fitting place for which the birthday of Washington is a fitting time."

Garret Davis spoke for half an hour after Mr. Conkling, approving entirely his first position, but never forgetting that this must be a white man's government. He said: "I was moved by the honorable Senator's splendid and effective rhetoric in relation to the downtrodden races; but I still adhere to the position that with my consent there shall never be any other goverment in this land than a white man's government.

—W. J. Howard, one of the solicitors of the Pennsylvania Railroad has been in Washington in consultation with the Attorney General about the recent decision of the Supreme Court on the legal tender act. It appears that certain parties holding the bonds of the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, Reading, and all other railroad companies running into Philadelphia, have notified the companies that they shall demand coin payment of the interest on their bonds heresfter, in accordance with the decision of the Supreme Court, that all contracts made prior to the war are payable, interest and principal, in coin. The companies are determined not to pay in coin but currency, as heretofore. There is a case on the docket of the Supreme Court, which has been laid over from time to time, involving the constitutionality of the legal tender act. If Judge Strong and Mr. Bradley were on the bench, it is believed the decision of Chief Justice Chase could be reversed. Mr. Howard is anxious to have Bradley confirmed so that he may take his seat with Strong. It is then proposed to bring the legal tender case up again, and get a decision reversing the one given by Chief Justice Chase.

—Since the passage of the Fifteenth amendment, Sambo no longer asks plaintively,. "Am I not a man and brother?" but sings gaily "Shoo fly, don't brother me, Mr. Democrat."

—A lazy lad, who did not go to church until the congregation were coming out, asked: "Is it all done?" "No," was the reply, "it's all said, but I think it will be some time before it's all done."

—I'll flog you for an hour you little villain. "Father," instantly replied the incorrigible young scamp, as he balanced a penny on his fingers, "I will toss you to make it two hours or nothing."

—The Mormans have commenced their labors in Chicago where they expect to reap an abundant harvest. It is probable that they know whereof they hope. Chicago is more like Salt Lake than any other single community in the country.

—Fell into a creek a woman named Bridget Clark while under the influence of some very bad whiskey the other day, near Lewisburg, with a child in her arms. The result was the immediate order of two coffins.

—Father," said a lad, "I often read of people being 'poor but honest'; why don't they sometimes say 'rich but honest?"

"Tut, tut, my son," replied the father; "nobody would believe them.

—Dr. D. G. Stewart, of New Albany has been at work twenty years in the translation of the New Testament from the original Greek, giving first the Greek word, and then the words from which it is derived, and then the translation in English. It will require two years to finish the book.

NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

THE GREAT FARMERS' PAPER!

The Paper of the People.

NOW IS THE TIME TO SUBSCRIBE FOR THE GREAT FAMILY NEWSPAPER.

It is Cheap Because its Circulation is Larger Than That of any Other Newspaper.

NOW IS THE TIME TO FORM CLUBS.

The New-York Weekly Tribune contains all the important Editorials published in the Daily Tribune, except those of merely local interest; also Literary and Scientific Intelligence; Reviews of the most interesting and important New Books; letters from our large corps of Correspondents; latest news received by Telegraph from all parts of the world; a summary of all important intelligence in this city and elsewhere: a Synopsis of the Proceedings of Congress and State Legislature when in session: Foreign News received by every steamer: Exclusive Reports of the Proceedings of the Farmers' Club of the American Institute: Talks about Fruit; Stock, Financial, Cattle, Dry Goods, and General Market Reports.

The Full Reports of the American Institute Farmers' Club, and the various Agricultural Reports, in each number, are richly worth a year's subscription.

HORTICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

To keep pace with the growing interest in practical Horticulture, and to comply with frequent appeals from all parts of the country for information of a practical character on the subject, we have engaged the services of a person who is experienced in rural affairs to write in a lucid style a series of articles on the Management of Small Farms, Fruit and Vegetable Culture, and how to make them pay, giving general and specific directions from planting to the ultimate disposal of the crops.

Of late years there has been a lucrative business carried on by unprincipled men, in selling worthless and old plants under new names to the inexperienced. The Tribune will be always ready to guard the farmer against any such imposition from that comes within our knowledge.

VETERINARY DEPARTMENT.

To make The Tribune still more valuable to its agricultural readers, we have engaged Prof. James Law, Veterinary Surgeon in Cornell University, to answer questions concerning diseases of Cattle, Horses, Sheep and other domestic animals, and to prescrib, remedies. Answers and prescriptions will be given only through the columns of the Tribune. We are sure that this new feature in the Tribune will add largely to its readers as all owners of animals are liable to need the information proffered. Inquiries should be made as brief as possible that the questions, answers, and prescriptions may be published together. In short, we intend that the Tribune shall keep in the advance in all that concerns the Agricultural, Manufacturing, Mining, and other interests of the country, and that for variety and completeness, it shall remain altogether the most valuable, interesting, and instructive Newspaper published in the world.

It has been well observed that a careful reading and study of the Farmers' Club Reports in the Tribune alone will save a farmer hundreds of dollars in his crop. In addition to these reports, we shall continue to print the best things written on the subject of agriculture by American and foreign writers, and shall increase these features from year to year. As it is, no prudent farmer can do without it. As a lesson to his workmen alone, every farmer should place the Weekly Tribune, upon his table ever Saturday evening.

The Tribune is the best and cheapest paper in the country. This is not said in a spirit of boastfulness. It has fallen to New-York to create the gratest newspapers of the country. Here concentrate the commerce, the Manufactures, the mineral resources, the agricultural wealth of the Republic. Here all the news gathers, and the patronage is so large that journalists can afford to print it. This is the strength of the Tribune. We print the cheapest, one best edited weekly newspaper in the country. We have all the advantages around us. We have great Daily and Semi-Weekly editions. All the elaborate and intricate machinery of our establishment—perhaps the most making the Weekly Tribune the best and cheapest newspaper in the world. The result is that we have so systematized and expanded our resources that every copy of the Weekly Tribune contains as much matter as a duodecimo volumn. Think of it! For two dollars, the subscriber to the Tribune for one year buys as much reading matter as though he filled a shelf of his library with fifty volumes, containing the greatest works in the language. The for force cheapness can no further go.

The Weekly Tribune is the paper of the people. Here the eager student may learn the last lessons of science. Here scholar may read reviews of the best books. Here may be found correspondence from all parts of the world, the observations of sincere and gifted men, who serve the Tribune in almost every country.

The Tribune is strong by reason of its enormous circulation and great cheapness. It has long been concealed that the Weekly Tribune has the largest circulation of any newspaper in the country. For years we have printed twice as many papers, perhaps, as all of the other weekly editions of the city dailies combined. This is why we are enabled to do our work, so thoroughly and cheaply. The larger our circulation, the better paper we can make.

What are the practical suggestions? Many. Let every subscriber renew his subscription, and urge his neighbors to do the same. If a man cannot afford to pay two dollars, let him raise a club, by inducing his neighbors to subscribe, and we shall send him a copy gratis for his trouble. No newspaper so large and complete as the Weekly Tribune was ever before offered at so low a price. Even when our currency was at par with gold, no such paper but the Tribune was offered at that price; and the Tribune then cost us far less than it now does. We have solved the problem of making the best and cheapest newspaper in America.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE.

is published every Tuesday and Friday, and being printed twice a week, we can, of course, print all that appears in our weekly edition, including everything on the subject of Agriculture, and can add much interesting and valuable matter, for which there is not sufficient room in the Weekly Tribune. The Semi-Weekly Tribune also gives, in the course of a year, three or four of the TICKETS.—Don't fail to procure your tickets to Mrs. Dunham's concert early, as we are informed that four hundred have already been disposed of.

DEATH.—John McCrum, of Milroy, who was employed in the machine shops of this place, died last week, of brain fever. He was a worthy young man.

CHECQUERS.—Mr. T. C. Fisher, of Huntingdon, proposes to play a match game of checquers with any one of the five best players that Bellefonte can produce.

SCHOOL REPORTS.—School directors are notified that copies of the Penn'a School Report, have been left at the office I. Greenoble, Register, where all members of school boards are requested to call for the same.

MUSIC hath charms to sooth the savage breast," said an ancient sage and law-giver. That being a well established fact, all wives having savage husbands should take them to Mrs. Dunham's concert.

VIOLINIST.—Persons desiring to hear and see one of the very best violinists play the most popular and pleasing airs of the day, should go and hear Mr. Frederick Smith at Mrs. Dunham's concert next Saturday night.

R. R.—The Mifflinburg Telegraph says: The Railroad meetings held in the several school houses in West Buffalo, Limestone and Buffalo, last week, were generally highly satisfactory and resulted in handsome subscriptions. The right of way has now been secured nearly the entire distance between Lewisburg and Mifflinburg, and the subscriptions aggregate about $30,000.

JOINT STOCK.—A chance to become rich at once—unprecedented inducements to invest. A join stock company is proposed to be raised to macadamize the Wykoff pavement, where it is fordable and to bridge the balance. One million of shares to be issued at the rate of ten for 5 nichols. The scheme is sure to pay. A charter to be applied for. For further information apply to any of the boro. dads.

KURTZ'S COMPOSITORS' PROOF LOCKING GALLEY.—J. G. Kurtz, ex-editor of the Central Press, has invented and patented a Compositors' Proof Galley which will be of great advantage to the printing fraternity, and ought to prove remunerative to the inventor. That it will be generally adopted in all well regulated printing offices we believe, as it has only to be seen to be fully appreciated by the craft.

POLITENESS NOT APPRECIATED.—For sometime our pavements have been over kind in their attentions to pedestrians, inviting them to he seated or even repose at full length. Some individuals more ceremonious than supple lose their uprightness, but seldom retain that position long. On rising it looks so funny to see these scared and chagrined folks look to see who sees. Urchins had better hold their peace about that time.

A PROFUSE and many times excessively offensive discharge from the nose. With stopping of the nose at times impairment of the sense of smell and taste, watering or weak eyes, impaired hearing, irregular appetite, occasional nausea, pressure and pain over the eyes, and at times in the back of the head, occasional chilly sensations, cold feet, and a feeling of lassitude and debility are symptoms which are common to catarrh, yet all of them are not present in every case. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures catarrh in its worst form and Stages. It is pleasant to use and contains no poisonous or caustic drugs.

Sent by mail on receipt of sixty cents. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

For sale by most Druggists every where.

CONCERT.—The concert of Mrs. Dunham, which is to come off at Reynolds' Hall, on next Saturday night, from the programme now before us, and the well known character of those composing it, promises to be the best musical treat, on the largest scale, ever enjoyed by our citizens. The Milesburg String Band, one of the very best in the country, will give the audience some of the best of music, which alone will be worth the price of admission. The song of "Hail us ye Free," sung by Messrs. Blanchard, Harris, Bibler, Montgomery and others, is well worth double the price of admission. "The Grecian Bend," a new song, is the most comic of these comic times, will be fully appreciated by all. In fact, all the songs on the programme, as well as the tableaux's appear to have been selected with great care in regard to the popular taste of the day, and worth double the admission fee. Persons wishing to enjoy a rare moral and intellectual treat should by all means put in an appearance.

CLINTON COUNTY ITEMS.—The brewery of Friedel Plepper, at Lock Haven, has been again seized by the government.

——Wm. Nyhard, of Lock Haven, received a paralytic stroke from which he died.

——A son Jacob Smith, aged 13 years, while skating broke through the ice and was drowned.

—— The Postmaster at Lock Haven, requires owners of key boxes to deposit fifty cents as security for the return of the key. Perceptive government officials down there.

——Hugh Conly, Esq., a good and prominent citizen of Clinton county died last week.

——H. L. Diefenbaugh, popularly known as the presiding elder of the democracy, and for a long time editor of the Clinton Democrat and who retired to the shades of his farm, offers his stock and farm for sale, preparatory to entering upon the duties of his circuit again, we suppose.

——The Clinton Republican takes this paper to task for publishing an item of news taken from his paper, in regard to one Philip M. Price, asking the town council to re-convey to him a price of land which he formerly gave to the borough. We had no intention of misrepresenting the gentleman, but the operation sounded strange to our unsophisticated ears, and published it as an item of news. We can see nothing in the item that should so excite the Republican, as he does not pretend to deny the fact. Now Mr. Price may play big or little "ingin" to his hearts content for all we care, it is not our funeral.

——Hon. L. A. Mackey, the late biographer of the traitor Aaron Burr, recently delivered a lecture on the character of Col. A. C. Noys, of Kettle Creek.

We think it would require a mind more subtle and schemeing than that possessed by the traitor Burr, to deliver a truthful lecture on the life, doings and character of L. A. Mackey.

——Some grumbler in a Lock Haven paper publishes a communication denouncing Gen. R. R. Bridgens, one of the most prominent and influential citizens of that place. We opine that the General will survive the dose as his character for honesty of purpose, and liberality of views are unimpeachable. The Gen., is one of the very best hunters on the West Branch and keeps a kennel of the best deer dogs in this or any other State and pays his taxes for them like an honest man and has them assessed at their full value; one as high as $1500,00, and that fact appears to be what the grumbler don't like.

For the Republican.

MESSRS. EDITORS:

This week our town was again awakened from its slumbers by the startling news of another "Masquerade."

Masquerades were denounced on last Sabbath, by the ministers from the various pulpits; nevertheless some of our christian-abiding citizens, fearless of the picture and description of "his Satanic Majesty" as given by their pastors, did participate in this small affair.

This one was given at the residence of widow H———, and we understand the host or hostess (for she served as both) politely requested the company to follow her, one at a time, into an adjoining room where she could ascertain who the different persons were. I understand that she did this in order to prevent any enemies to masquerades entering.

There are many speculations as to whom the author of that piece is that appeared in your paper sometime ago, especially dedicated to Masquerades, but as yet, I, and I think no one else but the author knows for a certainty; but the people are all of one opinion, save the attendants at that masquerade, and that is this, that the author is no fool but a smart man and that more sense has not appeared in your paper, condensed in such an article for a long time, of course they refer to correspondence.

It is highly probable that the last masque was given through resoluteness, having a desire to let the citizens and the world know that they were not the least abashed at what was stated in that article.

This was given on Tuesday evening and Wednesday, was the beginning of Lent so the Episcopalians made a hair breadth escape, I judge they desired to have "one jolly time" before they began to pay homage to their Saviour.

It is to be regretted by all good citizens that such a thing should be tolerated in our midst especially when we behold the conduct of our youth and "Young America." For you no doubt have heard that our town stands unrivaled for grog shops and hotels and that many persons are traveling down, down into disgrace although the Temperance Societies have done a noble work. All will unite in saying that there are fully enough temptations and vices without the introduction of new ones.

Yesterday there was a man injured near Steiners, caused by coupling cars and standing between the bumpers.

The season for ice has been for some time quite brisk but has now slackened a little. During the rush teams were kept running all night assisting in filling a contract of the Penn'a R. R. Co., and ice houses in this vicinity.

Although money is tight and times hard, buildings are being construcsted on all sides and the present season bids fair to be a working one, intended to increase the size and population of our town.

The Literary Society is augmenting rapidly although it is jostled from one place to another. During its short existence (not exceeding two months) it has met in no less than four different places. This we can attribute to nothing else than to the feeling entertained by many of our citizens toward institutions of learning. But through perseverance it will succeed. Arrangements are now being made for a Library, which will cement the society together.

Yours Truly,
AMICUS.

PHILIPSBURG, PA Mar. 4th, '70.

DEAD.

Lieut. Samuel L. Barr, whose death we announce this week, was born in Mifflin County, near Lewistown, Pa., Nov. 15th, 1838. Whilst he was but a child his father removed with his family to Ferguson Township, in this County. Here Mr. Barr grew up enjoying no more than the ordinary advantages which a country boy could secure, but making the most of those he had by energy and diligence.

When about fifteen years old he removed with his father to Butler County and after remaining there with him for several years, and accompanying him to Armstrong County, Lt. Barr returned to Centre county. He engaged in teaching and also for a portion of the time attended the Academy at Pine Grove Mills. He also engaged in grubbing new lands in the Barrens, during a portion of the year when not engaged in teaching. His last school was near Roopsburg, in Benner township. In August 1862, he enlisted in Capt. Weaver's Co. "B," 148th Penn'a Vols.' and was made a Sergeant on the organization of the Company. He was afterwards promoted to 1st Sergeant. He served with his Regiment, participating in all the battles in which the Regiment was engaged, until Oct. 14th, 1863, when in the battle of Bristow Station, in Virginia, a fragment of a shell struck his right arm and destroyed it. The arm was successfully amputated and Mr. Barr sent to Prince Street Hospital, Alexandria, where he was treated until he had recovered.

Sergeant Barr, was amongst the number of those who being entitled to an Honorable discharge, nevertheless chose to remain in the service, and was accordingly transferred as a sergeant to the Veteran Reserve Corps, a body of Soldiers disabled for field duty but quite equal to guard duties and services of a similar nature.

March 24th, 1864, before leaving the Hospital, Sergeant Barr, was chosen by the patients and attendants there, to present to their Surgeon Dr. Cass, as an evidence of their appreciation of his kindness, a costly Silver Tea Service, which had been procured for that purpose. The following is Sergeant Barr's speech on the occasion and probably the only one he ever made—Mr. Barr said:

"Surgeon Cass—Sir:—I have the honor of being chosen by the patients and attendants of this Hospital, to present to you this tea set as a token of our profound respect and esteem, toward you for the kindness and attention we have received at your hands. We beg you to accept these, and with them our heartfelt wishes for your future happiness and welfare, and be assured that you shall ever be held in grateful remembrance by the present occupants of Prince Street Hospital."

Sergeant Barr, now went upon duty in Washington, and so speedily recommended himself to his superiors, for he was aided by no influential friends, that June 13th, 1864, he was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant in the Veteran Reserve Corps, by President Lincoln. A certain company in the Corps having become demoralized and the officers in charge of it, having failed to restore discipline, Lt. Barr was assigned to its command, and in a very short time made it a model company for discipline, and strongly attached it to himself.

When Early and Breckinridge attacked Washington in July 1864, Lt. Barr was charged with the defence of a Railroad Bridge, near Washington, having in his command 110 men, his own company.

His Bridge was attacked by four or five hundred of the enemy's cavalry, whom he met firmly, and after a gallant fight succeeded in driving off and saved the Bridge. He lost four men killed, and a number wounded. The importance of saving our railroad connections just then could not be overestimated.

Lt Barr during a great part of his time was in charge of the Guard at Washington Depot. The post was one of great responsibility, and his assignment to it a compliment of no small value. All our soldiers, who passed that way when he was on duty at the depot will remember him for the polite and pleasant manner in which he performed his duties.

On the 14th February, 1865, Lt. Barr was married to Miss Isabella Resides, daughter of Philip Resides, Esq., of Benner township.

At the end of the war Lt. Barr was retained in the service, and when the President was murdered and his assassins were arrested he was placed in charge of the guard over them and continued in command of it until they were executed or sent away to their prisons. He continued on duty in and about Washington and Alexandria, securing occasionally a Leave of Absence, until in the latter part of the summer of 1866, when he was mustered out and returned home. He entered the office of Wilson & Hutchison, and commenced business in connection with A. B. Hutchison, who secured his assistance in prosecuting military claims. In the meantime he became a resident of Bellefonte and was in the Spring of 1867, elected a Justice of the Peace.

He proved to be a most efficient and impartial Magistrate, and was very freely patronized by men of all classes. In August 1869, the Republican nomination for the Office of Prothonotary was tendered to him and accepted. He made a vigorous canvass and led the ticket of his party. He had for a long time been suffering from Hemorrhages from his lungs, and had an unusually severe attack in December last. His health rapidly failed until he expired on Friday last, surrounded by his family and many sympathising friends.

No man amongst us had in so short a time won so much of public regard as Lt. Barr—as a youth he was diligent, enterprising and persevering—as a soldier brave, obedient and true to his cause—as an officer firm honorable and gallant—he never concealed or modified his opinions, but was decided and outspoken in expressing them—as a politician he was positive and energetic, though modest and polite. He was a man of strict honesty, was never profane and had never used tobacco or been intemperate. As a Magistrate he was intelligent impartial and careful to do justly towards all men. In his death a good citizen has been lost to us. But to his wife and the little son and daughter whom he leaves to survive him, the loss of a faithful and affectionate husband, a protecting and indulgent father, is irreparable and we can frame no words of comfort that will suffice to assuage a grief for which there is such a cause.

On Sunday the remains of Lt. Barr, borne by twelve of his comrades, and escorted by a body of soldiers about sixty in number, followed by an immense concourse of citizens, were buried in the Cemetery here, the people being allowed an opportunity of seeing the deceased at the grave just before the body was lowered to its final resting place.

Lt. Barr was well aware of his approaching death, and had no fears for his future in the world to which he was hastening.

He has gone to his long home. If he, like other men, had faults they were fewer than most men have, and his virtues we may all strive to imitate. The REPUBLICAN has reason to pay him a more than ordinary tribute for as he was our friend we found that he was one who could be a friend indeed.

"His life was gentle; and the elements
So mixed in him that nature might stand up
And say to all the world, this was a man."

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

Sung to the Tune of Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now comple connection's made,—
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedily and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about,
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of the elegant and substantial Spring and Summer Clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg

The Bellefonte Republican.

WEDNESDAY MORNING Mar. 9, '70

THE BURIAL OF MOSES.

["And he buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Bethpeor but no man knoweth of his sepulchre unto this day."—Deut. xxxiv., 6.]

By Nebo's lonely mountain,
On this side Jordan's wave,
In a vale in the land of Moab,
There lies a lonely grave,
And no man dug that sepulchre,
And no man saw it e'er;
For the angels of God upturned the sod
And laid the dead man there.

That was the grandest funeral
That ever passed on earth;
But no man heard the trampling
Or saw the train go forth.
Noiselessly as the daylight
Comes when the night is done,
And the crimson streak on ocean's cheek
Grows into the great sun—

Noiselessly as the spring-time
Her crown of verdure weaves,
And all the trees on all the hills
Open their thousand leaves—
So, without sound of music,
Or voice of them that wept,
Silently down from the mountain crown
The great procession swept.

Perchance the bold old eagle
On gray Bethpeor's hight,
Out of his rocky eyrie
Looked on the wondrous sight.
Perchance the lion stalking
Still shuns that hallowed spot,
For beast and bird have seen and heard
That which man knoweth not.

But when the warrior dieth,
His comrades in the war,
With arms reversed and muffled drum,
Follow the funeral car.
They show the banners taken,
They tell his battles won.
And after him led his masterless steed,
While peals the minute gun.

Amid the noblest of the land
Men lay the sage to rest,
And give the bard an honored place,
With costly marble drest.
In the great minster transept,
Where lights like glories fall,
And the choir sings and the organ rings
Along the emblazoned wall.

This was the bravest warrior
That ever buckled sword;
This the most gifted poet
That ever breathed a word;
And never earth's philosopher
Traced with his golden pen,
On the deathless page, truths half so sage
As he wrote down for men.

And had he not high honor?
The hillside for his pall;
To lie in state while angels wait,
With stars for tapers tall;
And the dark rock pines, like toss'g plumes
Over his bier to wave:
And God's own hand, in that lonely land
To lay him in the grave;

In that deep grave without a name,
Whence his uncoffined clay
Shall break again—most wondrous thought,
Before the judgment day,
And stand with glory wrapt around,
On the hills he never trod,
And speak of the strife that won our life
With the incarnate Son of God.

O lonely tomb in Moab's land,
O dark Bethpeor's hill,
Speak to these curious hearts of ours,
And teach them to be still.
God hath his mysteries of grace—
Ways that we cannot tell;
He hides them deep, like the secret sleep
Of him he loved so well,

Agricultural Department.

Bathing Horses.

A correspondent says he washes sweated horses in cold water with beneficial results, both in summer and winter. After washing, the animal should be rubbed dry, as far as practicable, and the legs especially. Should the hair on them be too long to admit of this being sufficiently done, flannel bandages should be put on, and a woolen rug thrown loosely over, but without the roller. In the course of an hour the horse will be tolerable dry, and should then have another rub down, and be clothed in the ordinary manner. If horses were treated in a more rational manner than is often the case, with pure air and scrupulous cleanliness, disease would be far less common.

What more refreshing to a man after a hard day's shooting, or other laborious exercise, than a warm or cold bath? And I believe it to be so to the horse. To the tired hunter a warm foot-bath and formention, if the animal is sufficiently quiet, is most refreshing. Some years ago I visited the royal stables at Buckingham Palace. There, as I was informed—and at the time witnessed the operation, every horse, summer and winter, was washed from head to foot with cold water, after returning from work, no matter whether it had been out one hour or six. After the ablution, scraping, scrubbing, etc., a kind of web cloth was thrown over to admit of evaporation, and the horse was afterwards rubbed down and clothed as usual, in the course of an hour or two. I consider the plan rational and conducive to the health of the horse, if only ordinary care is taken.

BUCKWHEAT straw, used for bedding live stock of any kind, causes an eruption of the skin. It has been frequently noticed that hogs when feeding among buckwheat stubbles are subject to eruption of the skin of the neck and ears, owing to an acrid juice which exudes from the cuts of the stubbles.

SORE MOUTHS.—For sore mouths either in human beings or animals, no application is equal to tannin, which should always be kept in the house for that purpose. A little of the powder sprinkled on the inflamed or sore spots will cure almost immediately.

Random Thoughts.

No farmer should build a house or make any other improvements without ascertaining befor hand the probable cost of the same. The preliminary expense of everything is esential to all agricultural thrift, and he who neglects it will be apt to discover his error after it is too late.

Ten bushels of boiled potatoes, mashed and mixed with three bushels of finely ground corn meal, will make as much pork as double the quantity fed in a raw state.

One or two applications of buttermilk will destroy lice on cattle, and is safe remedy to drive off the vermin.

In feeding potatoes and turnips to cattle they sometimes will get a potato or turnip lodged in the passage to the stomach, in which case a common, flexible wagon whip pushed gently down the throat will remove the object and give instant relief.

The most speedy way of making cider into vinegar is not to fill the casks more than half full, with the bung left out, which will expose the largest surface to the air, and consequently will become vinegar much sooner than if the barrel be filled full.

The farmer, in the manufacture and care of his manure heap, should always keep in view that it in preparation should not be allowed to lose its strength by the rapid fermentation have its soluble parts unnecessarily washed away and lost.

AVERAGE AGE OF ANIMALS.—The average age of cats, 15 years; of rabbits, 7,; a bear rarely exceeds 20; a fox 14 to 16; lions are long lived, the one known by the name of Pompey living to the age of 70 years; elephants have been known, it is asserted, to live to the great age of 400 years.—When Alexander the Great had conquered Porus King of India, he took a great elephant which had fought very valiantly for the King, and named him Ajax, dedicated him to the sun, and let him go with this inscription: "Alexander, the son of Jupiter, dedicated Ajax to the sun." The elephant was found with this inscription 350 years after.

Pigs have been known to live to the age of 20, and the rhinoceros to 20, a horse has been known to live to the age of 62, but average 25 to 30, camels sometimes live to the age of 100; stags are very long lived. Sheep seldom exceed the age of 10; cows live about fifteen years, and are then killed for beef. Cuvier considers it probable that whales sometimes live 1000 years; the dolphin and porpoise attain the age of 30; an eagle died at Vienna at the age of 104; ravens frequently reach the age of 100; swans have been known to live 300 years. Mr. Malerton has the skeleton of a swan that attained the age of 200 years. Pelicans are long lived. A tortoise has been known to live 107.

How to Cook a Bean By an Old Beanist.

Buy a bean, bathe it well, put in twelve quarts of river water, (if you haven't got a river, better buy one as they are handy to have.) boil it six hours by an avoirdupois clock, take it out and wipe it thoroughly dry with a soft towl, lay it on its northwest side about two degress Southwesterly; bore a hole gendy in each end, abstract the "innards" very quietly without mussing much; then stuff one end with rice boiled soft, the end that points toward the north should in all instances, except in cases of extreme hemorrhage, be stuffed first; then take the sorth shell off gently: then the east carefully, then sweeten with salt, and it will taste so much like rice, you'd never dream it was a bean.

COOKING is not only an art, but a science as well. Making money is an art, and there is more money made and lost in the kitchen than almost anywhere else. Many a hard working man has his substance wasted in the kitchen. A careless cook can waste as much as a man can earn, which might as well be saved. It is what we save that makes us well off. Prodigality and idleness constitute a crime against humanity, while frugality and industry, combined with moral virtue and intelligence, will insure individual happiness and prosperity.

The Winterset Iowa Sun says that not long since two brothers named Kelso, living in Pottawattamie county each married, one the father of three children, and the other of two, concluded that they had made a mistake in selecting their spouses. After a free consultation, and on agreement of all parties, they decided to trade wives. They did so. The proposer of the "trade" moved to Missouri, taking his brother's wife with him, and the other yet remains in Iowa with the other woman.

"I like to read epigrams against us women," said Mrs. Clever. "When a culprit clanks his chains you know that they are on him."

"HUG ME TIGHT" is the ladies' newest jacket.

A NEGRO explains the apathy in celebrating the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans by the fact that "Butler's bin dar since Jackson's bin gone."

They urge those wishing to purchase a machine, to examine all the other manufactures before buying, as it will, for itself, overcome all the objections to the other machines that can be brought against it.
